Thieu Against Any U.S. Viet Withdrawal

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today his government could agree to a gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops beginning by the end of this year, but he made clear he would hate to see them go.

In his first comments on President Johnson's de-escalation speech Sunday night, Thieu told a news conference that only more troops can hasten the end of the war. He also said if the United States withdraws from Vietnam, "they will be avoiding their responsibility and deserting the free world."

But when asked by what date he thought the United States could begin to withdraw, Thieu replied: "If the United States requests a withdrawal of its troops, we can agree to a gradual withdrawal beginning by the end of 1968. Of course, we will never ask the United States to go home, but if the U.S. government wants it, we can begin to relieve some American troops with our new effort to mobilization."

Thieu made these other points:

—His government will never agree to a coalition government with the Viet Cong. The Viet Cong can participate in peace negotiations, but only as part of the North Vietnamese delegation. Thieu and Ky have insisted on both points repeatedly.

—He does not think President Johnson's speech Sunday was the first step in a face-saving American withdrawal from Vietnam. "I have no suspicion of that because of the decisive stand of the United States... concerning peace in all of Southeast Asia," Thieu said.

—U.S. pressure could never force a coalition government including the Viet Cong on South Vietnam. "This is a Vietnamese war," Thieu said. "The American government and policies can change but the ideals and policies of the government of Vietnam will never change... We will not accept any policy that runs against the Vietnamese people."

—Differences between Thieu and Vice President Ky are over-emphasized. "We may differ on individual points, but we are working together for the highest interests of Vietnam," Thieu said. He appealed to the news men not to look "with a microscope for small differences which are sometimes imaginary between the vice president and myself."

Thieu added that he had asked Ky to take on the supervision of a project to organize civilians into armed self-defense units. As the president spoke, Ky sat at his right, grim faced and with his eyes nearly closed.

Gets Prison Term In Bank Holdup

CLEVELAND (AP)—A federal judge Monday sentenced Earl Simmons, 25, of Pittsburgh, to a 15-year-jail term after he pleaded guilty to the November, 1966, holdup of a Cleveland Trust Co. branch bank in East Cleveland. The robbery netted $5,250.

U.S. District Judge Thomas D. Lambros ordered the sentence to run concurrently with state terms Simmons is now serving in Pennsylvania for parole violation and armed robbery.

Wisconsin Voters Ballot in 'Shadow Primary' Today

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy — his real rival looming in elections to come — and Republican Richard M. Nixon checked their White House credentials today in a Wisconsin presidential primary that offered only shadow contests.

Chief among the shadows: Lyndon B. Johnson, the President whose announcement that he will not run again turned Wisconsin and Democratic politics from a battleground into a maze.

U.S. Air Raids North of DMZ Are Stepped Up

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes are stepping up their attacks on the southern part of North Vietnam during President Johnson's ban on bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial heartland, it was learned today.

U.S. bombers flew more than 100 missions against the North Monday, nearly double the average number of raids on the southern part of North Vietnam before Johnson's curtailment of the bombing.

Prior to Johnson's order, the number of air missions over the southern part of North Vietnam had been averaging about 60 a day, with an average of 40 to 50 missions flown daily against targets around Hanoi, Haiphong and north to the Chinese border.

One raid Monday made clear Pueblo Letter Talks of Fear Of Execution

TOKYO (AP) — One of the crewmen of the USS Pueblo was quoted today as saying the 82 crew members will be executed for spying if the United States fails to apologize.

The Korean Central News Agency distributed a letter it said was written by Lt. Stephen R. Harris, research officer of the ship, which pointed out that the penalty for espionage is death.

After saying "our lives have been spared because we sincerely and frankly confessed the crime," he added that the crew would not be released unless the United States confesses to espionage activities in North Korea's waters, assures the North it won't happen again and delivers an apology.

"If these conditions are not met, then we will be executed for the acts therefore," the agency said Harris wrote his mother and sister in Melrose, Mass.

camp, said the President undoubtedly would get more votes in Wisconsin than he would have had he remained in the presidential race. Johnson's name remains on the ballot.

McCarthy said he thought most Wisconsin voters had their minds made up and wouldn't change them despite the President's announcement.

"What happened might make some minor changes in the results, but I don't think they'll be measurable," he said.

that the area of North Vietnam which Johnson left open to attack extends to within 80 miles of Hanoi and some 210 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone. That was the location of the northernmost attack, on a supply target a mile south of the coastal city of Thanh Hao, and a U.S. military spokesman said it was outside the area covered by the bombing ban.

Johnson in his speech Sunday night announcing curtailment of the bombing said U.S. planes would continue to attack the area just north of the DMZ because of the threat from there to forward allied positions below the DMZ. He said his ban applied to "most" of North Vietnam and to an area in which 90 per cent of the North Vietnamese live.

U.S. planes flew a total of 105 missions against North Vietnam Monday, with the major effort against targets in the area of the Mu Gia Pass, a supply funnel into the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos. Air Force pilots reported destroying or damaging seven trucks, one railroad tunnel, nine military storage structures and one bridge.

In South Vietnam, Viet Cong gunners sent seven rockets whistling into Saigon's big Tan Son Nhut airbase today and shelled three other places from Hue along the northern seacoast to the Mekong Delta. Damage from the shelling was described as light and in all nine persons were wounded.

One shell set fire to a tank at South Vietnam's biggest oil depot, at Nha Be, six miles south of Saigon. It had been hit with mortars Monday.

Lorain Facing School Disaster?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Education Association (OEA) said today its inquiry team has found that money problems facing the Lorain City Schools "have now become so serious that only a massive effort by that city's citizens can avert an educational disaster."

This was the principal finding and conclusion of a special eight-member panel of educators and board of education members which conducted a detailed look into the Lorain schools at the request of the OEA's Professional Rights and Responsibilities Commission.

stand aside. Wisconsin politicians in both parties expected a sizeable vote of sympathy and complement.

Should that Johnson vote be large, McCarthy said, he would have to "go on to Indiana and say this was not a real political test, I suppose."

Wisconsin voting begins in some areas at 8 a.m. EST and winds up at 9 p.m. EST. In Madison, the state capital where the University of Wisconsin campus has seen several anti-war demonstrations, a municipal referendum faces voters on Vietnam issues.

Nixon Seeks Ohio Votes

Keeps Silent On Viet Moves

CINCINNATI (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, with an eye on the voting in the Wisconsin primary, brings his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination to Ohio today.

He is scheduled to address a noon luncheon of the state's Republican Women's Federation at Cincinnati's Convention-Exposition Center.

The former vice president had to alter the text of his speech as a result of President Johnson's renomination pullout.

The leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination said Monday he would hold off making "the comprehensive statement on Vietnam which I had planned for this week."

But he added the statement was "all prepared and will be ready to deliver if the bombing pause fails to produce meaningful negotiations and a reduction of the fighting. I hope this is a speech that is never delivered."

The former vice president, in the city for the day, made his remarks in a prepared statement and in a subsequent television interview with CBS News.

Nixon praised the President for his peace efforts but emphasized his view that "a bombing halt by itself would not be a step toward peace."

He said he assumed the president "would not have announced a bombing halt under present conditions unless his action was based on private diplomatic information available only to the government."

"I further assume that intensive and delicate diplomatic moves are now underway, possibly involving the Soviet Union," he said, adding that he decided on a moratorium "in order to avoid anything that might even inadvertently cause difficulty for our negotiators."

Crash Claims Mother, Five Of Children

WAUSEON, Ohio (AP)—A speeding train slammed into an auto Monday, killing a 29-year-old mother and five of her children.

The victims were Barbara Ann Foxe, 29, of Holgate, and her children, Scott, 8; Shane, 5; Shannon, 3; Tommy, 2, and Earl Jr., 7 months.

A sixth child, Andrew, 8, was in school when the Penn Central passenger train plowed into the car at a Fulton County crossing 1½ miles west of Pettisville. There were no injuries on the train.

The husband and father, Earl Foxe, was working nearby with a telephone company crew. He and others with him saw the accident and rushed to the scene.

Mrs. Foxe was believed enroute to meet her husband. The train struck the auto's rear end and hurled the vehicle down the tracks about a mile. The car then burst into flames.

The train engineer, R. G. Bowman, said the eastbound train was traveling about 80 miles an hour. Bowman said the car started across the tracks without stopping.

Hanoi to Take Advantage Of Breather, Officials Fear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force officials say the North Vietnamese are likely to take advantage of the U.S. bombing limitation by preparing a massive supply run southward.

The allied forces face the job of trying to intercept the new flow of goods ticketed for enemy troops in South Vietnam, the Air Force sources added.

They said a month-long bombing halt would permit the Communists to rush 100,000 tons of supplies South.

In other Pentagon reaction to President Johnson's Sunday night speech on Vietnam, defense officials said the administration plans to mobilize up to 60,000 reservists. But they stressed the figure could vary up or down depending on Pentagon studies under way.

The Pentagon is expected Wednesday to issue an initial mobilization order affecting 15,000 men.

The President has ordered limited air attacks to the area above the Demilitarized Zone, automatically freeing Communist truck and rail movement in the upper bulge of North Vietnam.

Johnson expressed hope the de-escalation move would produce peace talks with Hanoi.

One of the President's major war policy critics, Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said if the North Vietnamese "have not lost all sense of perspective" they will respond quickly to Johnson's bid.

"The North Vietnamese will be extremely foolish if they do not respond favorably, and will themselves be in the arbitrary position... I would say that within a few days they should make some move."

The key communications line in North Vietnam's upper bulge freed from bombing by the President's order is a rail line extending southwestward out of Red China into Hanoi. The line carries a substantial amount of small arms from China.

This rail line has to be hit regularly to disrupt its use. In addition, the military would have liked to continue striking industrial plants and military complexes located in the same northeast quadrant.

Name Lodge Ambassador To Bonn

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has nominated Henry Cabot Lodge, former ambassador to South Vietnam and the Republican vice presidential nominee in 1960, to be ambassador to West Germany.

Lodge, 65, will replace George McGhee, who will return to Washington to become a special ambassador. McGhee, 56, is a former ambassador to Turkey and a former undersecretary of state.

The President announced the job shift in the cabin of his plane Monday on his return from Chicago where he made an address. Lodge has been a special ambassador since he returned from Vietnam.

West Germany has approved the assignment.

How much the enemy benefits from the cessation—assuming Hanoi doesn't move immediately toward negotiations—will obviously depend on how long the bombing halt lasts, officers said.

Defense officials who declined to be identified told newsmen there is no time limit on the bombing cessation.

But these officials also pointed out the United States is two months away from the best flying weather over North Vietnam—throwing open the possibility American planes might resume full operations this summer if Hanoi takes no reciprocal act of de-escalation.

Humphrey Studies Political Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey heads for a crucial meeting with President Johnson after telling supporters he'll say "later on" whether he will seek the presidency.

Humphrey said they would meet today.

Johnson also has on tap a meeting with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who already is contending for the Democratic nomination, with no date announced. Kennedy requested the meeting to discuss national unity following Johnson's startling announcement Sunday night that he won't seek or accept renomination.

Johnson told newsmen Monday he would grant Kennedy's request.

Johnson's announced exit prompted Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, another Democratic contender, to make last-minute efforts to counter a potential sympathy vote for the President in today's Wisconsin primary.

Only the President and McCarthy are listed on the Democratic ballot there and private polls taken before Johnson's announcement showed McCarthy way ahead.

In a nationally broadcast speech on primary eve McCarthy said Johnson's decision not to run again "deserves, I think, the approval, the honor and the respect of every citizen of the United States."

Humphrey, who was on a diplomatic mission in Mexico when Johnson made his decision public, stepped from a plane into the chilly Washington air late Monday night and got a warm welcome from about 500 persons, many of them bearing placards urging him to run.

"I will meet with President Johnson tomorrow and I shall be talking to you later on," Humphrey told them.

Standing behind him as he read his statement was Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, a former three-term governor of Minnesota who was Humphrey's protégé early in their careers.

Freeman made no comment about whether he would back a Humphrey bid but Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., who also was in the crowd, said he would support such a bid.

A Humphrey bid apparently would also attract support among Democratic leaders and labor chiefs.

Withdrawal of U.S. Troops From Europe Accelerates

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The withdrawal of 35,000 American soldiers and airmen from Europe accelerated today with the departure by plane of the 24th Infantry Division's 3rd Engineer Battalion.

A commercial jetliner took off from Munich with 214 soldiers, wives and children. Three other flights were scheduled today with a total of 327 passengers.

Their first stop in the United States was to be McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, to unload men whose cars had been shipped in advance to Philadelphia. The rest were to continue on to Forbes Air Force Base in Kansas and then to Ft. Riley, Kan.

Another unit, the 5th Battalion, 32nd Armor, is to begin its withdrawal Wednesday.

Two 24th Division brigades, totaling 10,000 servicemen and 12,000 members of their families, are being shifted to Ft. Riley under the redeployment plan announced last December. The plan is to save about $100 million annually in foreign exchange costs.

The 24th Division's move is expected to take until mid-June.

An advance party is already in Kansas.

Also scheduled for transfer are the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment to Ft. Lewis, Wash., three squadrons of the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing to Holloman Air Base, N.M., and the 47th Tactical Fighter Squadron to Mountain Home Air Base, Idaho.

Detachment 3, 7th Air Commando Squadron, with 78 men, is moving Sembach to Otis Air Force Base, Mass.

The 18th Casualty Staging Flight, with 36 men, goes from Rhein Main Air Base, near Frankfurt, to Pope Air Force Base, N.C.

The largest air unit involved, the 49th Tactical Fighter Wing, is slated to begin its move from Spangdahlem Air Base to Holloman sometime before July 1. The move is to be completed by Aug. 31, with the unit's F4 Phantoms being flown out between July 16-18.

The other air units are scheduled to begin moving in mid-July.

The withdrawal was ordered after West Germany informed the United States it could not meet the full foreign exchange offset costs of stationing about 225,000 American soldiers and 60,000 airmen in Germany.

First Reaction By Reds Not Encouraging

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam's official newspaper charged the United States is planning a "new plot" in Vietnam and described an American peace offer as a "fraud," a Japanese report from Hanoi said today.

The official Communist newspaper Nhan Dan apparently was referring to President Johnson's order Sunday halting the bombing of most of North Vietnam and calling for peace talks. But it made no specific mention of Johnson's offer.

However, the North Vietnamese army newspaper, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, said Johnson was trying to mislead public opinion and he had not called for an unconditional halt to bombing in the North. This was considered the first North Vietnamese reaction to Johnson's offer.

The pro-Communist Japanese Dempa News Agency said Nhan Dan declared: "The United States is planning a new plot to maintain its new colonialism and increasing its troops to reconstruct the South Vietnamese puppet regime and troops."

"The United States is attempting to increase bombing of North Vietnam and a so-called fraudulent proposal for peace talks is aimed at getting rid of isolation from the people of the world."

The army newspaper Juan Doi Nhan Qdan quoted by Tass pointed out that Johnson still has not agreed to halt bombings and other military action against North Vietnam, as demanded repeatedly by President Ho Chi Minh's regime before peace talks can begin.

Seeking a resumption of the Geneva conference on Vietnam, of which the Soviet Union and Britain are co-chairmen, British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart met for 45 minutes Monday night with Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky and told

Rhodes Urges Nixon To Keep Talking Issues

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes urged Richard M. Nixon, former vice president and front runner for the Republican presidential nomination, today to continue presenting the major issues to the people of the nation.

The governor introduced Nixon for an address at a luncheon meeting of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organizations in the new convention center here.

"Regardless of the final decision of the Republican party, of the state of Ohio and the nation, I say in behalf of many Republicans of this state: We hope Richard Nixon will continue to present the issues of the day to the people of the nation in his customary forthright, clear and sincere way," Rhodes said.

Auto Owner Makes False Report To Get Insurance

A Pennsylvania man who allegedly wanted a four speed transmission for his car has been charged with making a false report to Circleville Police.

Donald Gray, 27, Irwin, Pa., told police Monday the clutch housing, transmission and drive shaft of his 1966 model car had been stripped from the vehicle and stolen.

Police say Gray removed the parts himself and then reported them stolen to the insurance company. According to police, Gray wanted to install a four-speed transmission in his car and hoped to use insurance funds to help pay for the gear box installation.

Gray apparently, a construction worker, removed the parts from the car on East Franklin St. He then had two local youths help him push the car to the parking lot at the Guest House Motel where he was staying.

HE had another local person drive him to the Red River Bridge where they threw the transmission into the river.

The other parts, with the exception of the drive shaft, were concealed in an empty house on the East Ringgold-Red Bridge Road.

Police indicated that the insurance firm might file additional charges against Gray. Conducting the investigation were Sgt. Leroy Hawks and Patrolman Jack Mills.

Ross County Deputy Sheriff Douglas Ray was called to recover the transmission from the river.

A scuba diver, Ray told police he would delay the recovery attempt until the river had time to recede.

Gray was to appear in Circleville Municipal Court today.

First Reaction

him he was ready to fly to Moscow to see Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"Mr. Smirnovsky restated some of the familiar Russian and North Vietnamese positions so you could not say I was encouraged," Stewart said in a television interview afterward.

But he added: "This move will prove in time to be part of the process that in the end will get peace."

Smirnovsky told newsmen Johnson's limitation of the bombing of North Vietnam was "incomplete" and "not unconditional" as the North Vietnamese had demanded. His remark echoed comments in a dispatch from Washington by Tass, the official Soviet news agency.

The delay in official reaction from Moscow and Hanoi was not unusual, but various unofficial comments indicate Moscow and Hanoi would reject Johnson's overture for peace negotiations.

Officials in Europe familiar with Vietnamese affairs predicted that Hanoi would reject peace talks on the ground that parts of North Vietnam were still being bombed. However, the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris relayed a copy of Johnson's speech to Hanoi.

In Cairo, a member of a visiting Viet Cong delegation said the President's speech indicated "the Americans mean no peace and our people have no choice but to continue fighting."

The Red Chinese, long opposed to any settlement in Vietnam short of a complete Communist victory, were also expected to reject or ignore the Johnson overture. The Peking correspondent of Japan's Kyodo News Service said the Chinese interpreted the Johnson announcement to mean the Americans had lost confidence in their ability to win the war.

In Hong Kong, both Communist and anti-Communist newspapers agreed that the bombing cutback spelled U.S. defeat in the fight against Communism in Asia.

Australian Prime Minister John Gorton said his government has cabled Britain and Russia, asking them to use their best efforts to persuade Hanoi to agree to peace talks. He said Johnson's bombing curtailment was a "most significant and generous offer" and said it "will provide the acid test of whether Hanoi wants peace or not."

Grand Jury Returns 10 Indictments

The Pickaway County Grand Jury returned 10 true bills and one no bill Monday during the April session.

Three of the indictments were "secret." The other indictments were:

Seymour Stires, arson; Erma Ray Colgrove, possessing lewd photographs; Chester T. Curry, defrauding a garage owner; John Shaw, defrauding an innkeeper; James W. Ramsey, failure to support minor children; William Bussard, embezzlement; Adrian Buskirk, failure to support minor children.

John Paul Adkins, charged with failure to support minor children, was not indicted.

Serving on the Grand Jury were: Martha Barnhill, Harold L. Moffett, Ralph B. May, Estel Mavis, Gladys West, Charles Carpenter, William A. Thomas, Anna Mae Lawless, Helen D. Bower, George Smalley, Lewis Hay, Dorothy Arledge, Gerald Barnett, Charles Young and John Skinner.

The jury toured the jail and recommended that the kitchen be enlarged and that additional men be hired to staff the undermanned sheriff's department.

Dallas Dameron, 30, Ashville, forfeited a $19 bond set on a charge of speeding 70 miles in a 60 mile zone.

The court collected $306 in fines, bond forfeitures and costs from 12 out-of-county motorists.

Ballistics Tests Made In Murder

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Ballistics and fingerprint tests on the pistol involved in the deaths of Mrs. Marian Weisgerber and her daughter and the wounding of her two sons won't be completed until later this week, police say.

The pistol was found on a bed Saturday near the bodies of Mrs. Weisgerber and her daughter Ann, 19.

Mike Weisgerber, 17, and his brother Jack, 13, remained in poor condition at a Ft. Wayne, Ind., Hospital. Bullets from the shooting remained in their heads.

Relatives said the boys reported remembering only going to bed Friday night and waking up Saturday in a hospital.

Fred Weisgerber, the husband and father, said he had been working in his yard and found the bodies when he went inside the house. Police said Weisgerber did not hear shots fired, as was first reported.

Local Remap Looms Across U.S.

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Propelled by logic and an extra-large dosage of judicial activism, the Supreme Court has spun out the revolution it began in March 1962 when it gave federal courts jurisdiction over malapportioned legislatures.

If state legislatures must be based on districts that are substantially equal in population, as the court said in June 1964 they must be, shouldn't city, town and county governing bodies that are creatures of these legislatures be bound by the same rule?

It took almost four years and a few false starts, but Monday five justices decided the logic was inexorable.

"The actions of local government are the actions of the state," Justice Byron R. White reasoned. Logically he found little difference between the exercise of state power through legislatures and its exercise by election officials in the cities, towns and counties.

The logical simplicity was what appeared to irk most the three dissenters. Thurgood Marshall, the ninth justice, did not participate.

Potter Stewart scorned the use of "sixth-grade arithmetic" to resolve subtle problems of constitutional law.

Abbe Fortas said his colleagues had passed over a complex of values and factors with "the arithmetic simplicity of one equals one."

And John M. Harlan described himself as "frankly astonished at the ease" with which the court brought one man-one vote to grassroots government.

But these were the complaints of dissenters. The die is cast. The remaining question is how cities, towns and counties will get in line with Supreme Court-made law.

At the beginning of 1967 there were 81,253 units of local government in the United States. This includes 3,049 county governments, 18,051 municipal governments, 17, 107 township governments, 21,782 school districts and 21,264 other special districts.

The number and variations are staggering. Some 20,000 to 23,000 elect officials by district. It is these that are most directly affected by Monday's decision.

Many already are in line with one man-one vote. Additionally, the state supreme courts of California, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, South Dakota and Wisconsin have applied the principle to local government.

Those that are not in line and that exercise what White called "general governmental powers" will have to get in line.

Their reasoning was based on the political logic that if an incumbent President who is likely to remain in power four more years couldn't get Congress moving, an outgoing executive would have less influence.

"We will, in effect, be in a long period of 'lame duck' status," said Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex. "At this critical juncture in our history, we cannot afford a period of diminished influence from the White House."

This "diminished influence" has been apparent since Democrats lost so many seats in the 1966 House elections. While Johnson's domestic programs once flew through a cooperative Congress, they have difficulty keeping alive now.

Pending White House requests to project some programs into the future—for five years in some cases—aren't likely to be granted. One-year extensions may be the new order.

The major Johnson proposal most likely to be boosted on Capitol Hill is his request for a tax increase to cut down the federal deficit.

The House has blocked action on this, contending the President first should cut government spending.

Supporters of the proposal have tried to push it through the Senate and a vote on it was due in the Senate today.

In his Sunday night speech, Johnson said he expected Congress to cut his budget and indicate he would accept such action in exchange for passage of a tax bill—a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., whose House Ways and Means Committee has kept the income-tax boost on the shelf, labeled the President's comments as "clearly a step toward the kind of compromise we have all been talking about."

But another top Johnson proposal, an open-housing civil rights measure, may be in deeper trouble than it had been.

Before Sunday's announcement, House leaders weren't sure they could get enough votes to clear the Senate-passed measure. They are less certain now that the President's influence has diminished.

Recorder Lists 2-Month Report

Reports of the office of county recorder for the months of February and March have been issued by recorder, Hazel M. Yeatts. The recordings processed in the two-month period totaled 456—194 in February and 262 for March.

A breakdown of the proceedings for February includes the processing of 87 deeds; 61 real estate mortgages amounting to $936,427.82; and 46 miscellaneous recordings. There were 182 financing statements filed and processed and 57 real estate mortgages cancelled involving money in the amount of $1,485,292.38.

During the month of March, recordings processed consisted of 122 deeds; 85 real estate mortgages involving $1,312,923.68; and a total of 55 miscellaneous recordings.

The number of real estate mortgages cancelled during March numbered 81, with $2,556,047.52 in monies involved. The recorder filed and processed 179 financing statements, completing the monthly report for March, 1968.

OU President Faces Strike

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University President Vernon R. Alden, facing a strike threat from the student government, has set up a nine-man student-faculty administrative committee.

Its function will be to recommend priorities in fund allocations.

Although Alden said he thought the action would avert a strike, student spokesman Walter Borton said students wanted a stronger voice in determining how service fees are spent. They also wanted a written explanation from Alden showing how a proposed $30 boost in the fee will be spent.

Without substantial white support, or unless white voters stay at home in large numbers, the chances of the Negro candidates winning the party nominations for the three seats are slim.

The nominees chosen in today's election will represent the party in the general election Aug. 13.

3 Negroes Seek Selma Offices

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Three Negro candidates are seeking to defeat city councilmen on today's Democratic primary runoff. But despite a vast increase in Selma's Negro voting strength, the outcome rests with white voters.

Without substantial white support, or unless white voters stay at home in large numbers, the chances of the Negro candidates winning the party nominations for the three seats are slim.

The nominees chosen in today's election will represent the party in the general election Aug. 13.

Nature's Pattern Is . . . Something To Think About

By JEAN CRIST

The following are some thoughts of a parent who is trying to find her way through the sea of confusion that has enveloped what used to be a rather uncomplicated procedure, that of raising children.

You will find no profound statements or ideal solutions. Just the ideas of one, like you, who is looking for a better way. Realizing, that when it comes to raising children, our very best efforts give no guarantee whatsoever of good results. As parents we must be willing to put forth large amounts of love, patience, work, time, and money, to name a few, and always with the knowledge that we can end our pursuit with a heart full of joy or sadness. This is the risk we take when we bring a new life into the world.

But why do we as parents give our children such a rough way to go? Seems logical that as parents we should do everything we can to help them grow in the proper way. How can such well-intentioned and intelligent parents make such big blunders when it comes to raising their children. Maybe the following will help you understand what I mean.

To begin with, children are born in this world completely helpless and of necessity have to be cared for to some degree until they are about 17 years old. This, most parents do in abundance today. The pendulum has swung as far as it will go and stuck! The average parent spends approximately 17 years of his life meeting the needs, wants, and demands of this sometimes wonderful, sometimes terrible responsibility called a child.

You hear expressions such as these:

"I want him to have all the things I never had as a child." "He will never have to work as I did!" "All the other girls take dancing lessons and she will feel left out if she doesn't." "If I discipline her too much it might injure her psyche and affect her later years."

Then after all these years of this "greenhouse treatment" we give them a diploma and a pat on the back. We tell them what a glorious future they have to look forward to and proceed to send them out into a world for which they have been ill-prepared.

We have led them to believe that many will care what happens to them as deeply as their parents cared, and this is not true. They will be among the fortunate ones if they find a husband or wife who fulfills this need. We have made them feel that they are one of the most important people in the world, when in reality they are just one of millions trying to find a place in life.

We have taught them to expect and demand what they want from others as their due. When we know that there are two ways of getting things in this world, either use other people, or work and get it under your own power.

In their protected environment, we have taught them that occasionally trouble comes, but when it does there will always be someone there to take the trouble away, as it has always been at home. In the real world, good and bad, trouble and happiness, are mixed together in a different measure for each of us, depending upon our actions, reactions, and circumstance itself. We forgot to tell them that they may have to handle this trouble alone, and they may feel lost and afraid. They will have to stumble and make mistakes in order to find their way.

We have tried to isolate them from all that is harmful or unpleasant. We have painted a pleasant, but unrealistic picture of the world for them. We have denied them the privilege of learning to choose between right and wrong by eliminating the alternative.

But most important of all we neglected to tell them that although all these things are true it is a world worth saving and theirs is a life worth living, but only if they make it so.

In our desire not to hurt those we love and to protect them, we mistakenly save the bad and let them find it themselves, sometimes all at once, and all alone.

It is no wonder they are afraid.

Maybe we could take a lesson from nature in respect to raising our children. God has made a beautiful pattern for us to follow when you watch the beginning and growth of a flower.

The very tiny seed is planted in the earth and a period of waiting comes next, sometimes we become a little anxious at this time for we see no visible effects of our efforts. But then one sunny warm spring day we step outside and look again at the dark soil for a sign, and there it is! So tiny and frail, it seems to touch it, would wither it. In a matter of days, the rate of growth is rapid. It becomes an important part of the day to see how fast the flower is shooting up out of the rich soil.

It is interesting to note, at this point, that from the very first break through the ground, until the complete maturing of the plant, God has seen fit to expose the flower to all the elements with which it will spend the rest of its life. So that as a full-grown plant, when the drought comes and the strong winds blow, the plant will adapt to this adversity, for this is something that has happened before. And when the soft, spring rains gently touch the flowers, and the sun comes out to warm them, they will respond magnificently with growth and beauty. Why cannot our children, if, proportionately nurtured, react with the wisdom of nature?

This experiencing of the knowledge of good and bad through his growing years should enable him to cope with the bad with less fear and more confidence in his own judgement, and enhance his ability to enjoy and share the good.

Set Hearing For Murder

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Kerry M. Martin, 19, Middletown, accused of beating to death a young Hamilton mother of four, now is scheduled to be arraigned Friday in Franklin Municipal Court. An earlier arraignment date was postponed. Authorities said Martin was listed as being absent without leave from his Army unit at Ft. Campbell, Ky. He was arrested in Middletown last Friday.

He is charged with first-degree murder in the death of Jenella Haynes, 29, whose battered body was found March 17 in a wooded area near Franklin.

Preventing Car Thefts

Now that two Oregon men have invented a device which will make people take the keys out of their cars (the car's ignition switch won't turn off the motor until the key is removed), perhaps some genius will soon come up with an invention that will make people lock their car doors.

Police contend soaring car thefts would be reduced more than 50 percent if car doors were always locked when a car is not in use.

It isn't necessary to be an inventor to know what such a gimmick should be like: a bell ringing loud enough for even a very deaf driver to hear until all the car doors are locked.

Hijackings Must Stop

Only Castro would have the effrontery to use hijacking of U. S. airplanes as an excuse for berating the United States.

In the wake of the latest joyride which diverted a National Airlines craft from Florida to Havana, the Cuban dictator said he might not return such hijacked planes in the future. It seems some of the boats and small planes in which refugees have fled to the U. S. have not been returned to Cuba.

It is useless to argue with the kind of mind that would equate hijacked passenger liners and worthless refugee boats. But it should make American airlines even more conscious of the necessity for protecting their planes. Even if armed guards have to be stationed on all airliners.

So far, the hijackings have been rather light-hearted, if scary, affairs. The pilots have flown to Havana as ordered, and then been allowed to return with other passengers to the United States.

But someday one of those hijackers is going to kill a crew member or passengers. Or someone attempting to foil the gunman will set off a fight that could crash the plane and kill everyone aboard.

Surely there is some way of stopping the hijackings.

Reds Care for Their Own

It calls me to say so, but the Communists take care of their own. By contrast, the friends of the United States discover that a lukewarm ally is frequently worse than no ally at all.

These remarks are prompted by a Soviet order to the propagandist apparatus of the French, Belgian, and Italian Communist parties to point out the difference between the fates of Mikis Theodorakis, the leftist Greek politician and musical composer who was recently freed from prison by the Athens military junta, and Moise Tshombe, the pro-western Congo leader who is still imprisoned in Algeria after being kidnapped in the air over Spain's Balearic Islands.

Already, in West European Communist circles, the word is being spread that, where the "imperialists" do nothing for their supporters, the force of Communist pressure can be counted on to liberate anyone whom Moscow looks upon with favor. True enough, Theodorakis was freed under an amnesty after promising to forget politics and devote himself to his family and his music (he composed the score for the film "Zorba the Greek"), which may simply indicate that the Athens military dictatorship is willing to take a man's word for his future behavior where the Boumedienne government in Algeria is more skeptical about such things. But fine shades of distinction do not bother the Communists when they are out to impress western "progressives" with the superiority of their muscle.

The trouble is that the Communists are really willing to use muscle where the West is not. In the case of Tshombe, our State Department has indeed played the lukewarm defender. It is only by great luck that Tshombe has not been sent long ago to the Congo by the Boumedienne government for execution at the hands of Congolese President Joseph Mobutu. Thinking to get something for itself out of delivering Tshombe's live body to his enemies after the kidnapping by a French adventurer, the Algerian government had asked Mobutu to declare himself on the side of the Arabs in their warfare against the Israelis. But Mobutu couldn't do this without dismissing his Israeli military advisers, which he was unwilling to do. So Tshombe has remained a prisoner in Algeria, where he has been shuttled from a jail cell to a succession of private villas, sometimes being mistreated, sometimes not.

At this particular point the Boumedienne government seems to be somewhat embarrassed by the whole episode. Maybe it would welcome a pretext to let Tshombe go free. But our State Department can't seem to summon up the gumption to do anything about Tshombe. The State Department is committed to supporting the status quo in the Congo, but, since Mobutu is dependent on Washington or practically everything that keeps him in power, he would hardly turn on the U. S. if we were to intercede in Tshombe's behalf. Besides, we could exact a promise from Tshombe to refrain from future political activity, just as the Greek junta did in the case of Mikis Theodorakis. This ought to satisfy Mobutu that we are not trying to underwrite his successor.

If our State Department would only move, a formula could easily be found to return Tshombe to Spain. The Spanish authorities of the province of Valencia, after a thorough investigation of the Tshombe kidnapping near the island of Ibiza, are satisfied that the deed was done in Spanish airspace. There is ample reason in international law for asking the return of Tshombe to Spanish soil. Presumably the Spaniards haven't pressed for Tshombe's release out of courtesy to the U. S. State Department, which is pictured in Europe as wanting to do nothing to annoy Mobutu in the Congo.

Indeed, European cynics are saying that our State Department hopes to edge the Belgians out of the copper-rich Congolese province of Katanga in favor of U. S. copper interests. Stories were floating around that the CIA had arranged for Tshombe's kidnapping in the first place, and when British newspaper countered these stories by saying that the kidnapping had been plotted by no less a person than President De Gaulle, the CIA was blamed for spreading this tale as a backfire. By working to free Tshombe, the State Department could make an end of all this nonsense. It is time for the lukewarm thinkers in Washington to generate a little heat in behalf of an old friend.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, April 2, The 93rd day of 1968. There are 273 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson asked Congress to declare war on Germany. He said: "The world must be made safe for democracy."

On this date: In 1792, Congress established the U. S. mint and ordered that all coins be inscribed with the motto, "E Pluribus Unum."

In 1805, the Danish writer of fairy tales, Hans Christian Andersen, was born.

In 1865, during the Civil War, Confederate President Jefferson Davis and most of his Cabinet fled from Richmond, Va.

In 1872, the inventor of the telegraph, Samuel F. B. Morse, died in New York City.

In 1932, Charles A. Lindbergh turned $50,000 over to an unidentified man in a Bronx, N.Y., cemetery in the hope his kidnapped son would be returned.

In 1945, American troops were pushing inland on Okinawa after the largest amphibious operation of the Pacific war.

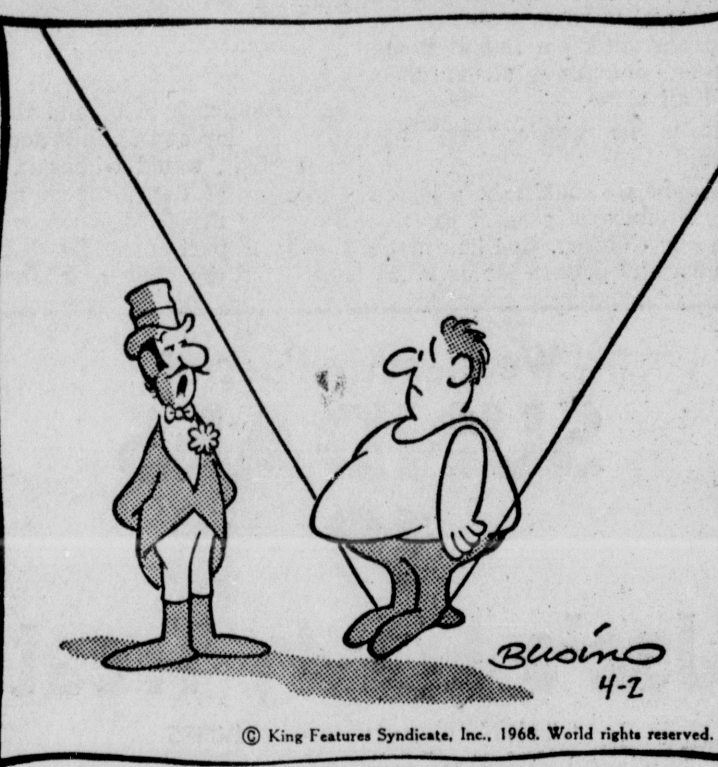

Ten years ago—President Dwight D. Eisenhower asked Congress to establish a National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

Five years ago—A military revolt against President Jose Maria Guido of Argentina was quelled.

One year ago—A Canadian bush pilot was found in the Yukon 59 days after the crash of his plane.

JIM BACON, visiting the headquarters of one of those weird cults that seem to thrive in the balmy air of Southern California, was startled to discover this notice posted on the clubroom bulletin board: "Due to the shortage of trained trumpeters, we have been compelled to postpone the end of the world."

Willie McCovey, slugging first baseman of the San Francisco Giants, is not exactly a loquacious fellow. In fact, compared to McCovey, Calvin Coolidge was an old blabber-mouth. One summer morning a baseball scribe called Willie, who mumbled an unintelligible reply. "I'm sorry, Willie," apologized the scribe. "Did I wake you up?" Willie replied, "SOME."

The last time Mary Martin saw Oscar Hammerstein was while she was rehearsing as the star of one of his greatest hits, "The Sound of Music." "Oscar was looking pale and haggard," she recalls. "He slipped a piece of paper into my hand, saying, 'I don't know whether we'll ever use it in the show, but I want you to have it.'" When Miss Martin unfolded the paper she read these four lines:

"A bell is no bell till you ring it;
A song is no song till you sing it.
And love in your heart wasn't put there to stay;
Love isn't love till you give it away."

When I read soon thereafter of Oscar's death," concludes Mary Martin, "I realized that this was his farewell to me."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A patient was admitted to my consultation room. I waited for about three minutes and then came into the room to greet him. I had never seen him before. I made a very special point of doing this every time I see a new patient. I find that if I allow them a short period of time alone in new surroundings their anxiety at seeing a new doctor seems to diminish.

Many patients, despite all the delays for early treatment, complain by months to a doctor. It seems that they are actually afraid to have confirmed or denied the fears that have been growing within them. Almost always these fears are unrealistic and have no basis in truth.

The patient I refer to, almost immediately said, "Doctor, I'm parked near a fire hydrant. Do you mind if we put off the appointment until another time?" It was evident that his anxiety was so great that he felt that he had to get out of the office immediately. Aware of this I said he might do so.

He immediately said, "Well now that I'm here, I guess I'll stay. But whatever you do, don't hurt me." This I promised to do and then began taking his medical history.

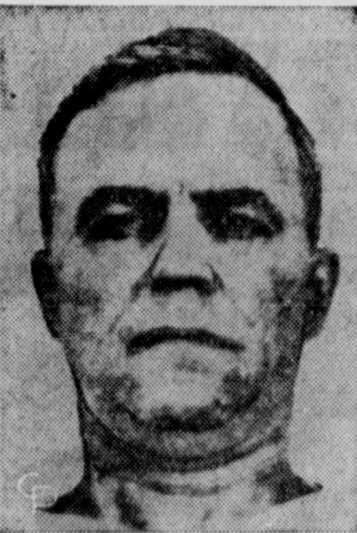

It was quickly apparent by the diversity of complaints and their non-specific nature, that some psychological problem was interwoven into all of his physical problems.

During the examination it became necessary for him, a grown man and father of three children, to confess his mortal fear of pain. Examination at this time showed that he had a chronic infection of the left ear which dated back to his childhood.

Apparently he recalled how painful and unpleasant his childhood treatment and examinations were. His anxiety was based on the fact that he relived all of these moments in terror.

Adults carry throughout their lives the psychological effects of painful experiences of childhood. It matters little if these hurts affected their psyche (mind) or their soma (body).

The pain of the original hurt is just as great when it attacks the mind or the body. Both are often reflected in adult patterns of behavior.

"MOST WANTED"—George Edward Wells (above), a convicted killer described as vicious and sadistic, is a new name on the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." The Ohio-born Wells, 52, is 5-feet-8, weighs 165-175, has greying hair, brown eyes. He has tattoos of a heart and dagger and a bird on his left forearm. Armed robbery is current charge.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — As a symbol of President Johnson's fiscal frustrations, nothing stands out more clearly than the fact that while advocating low interest rates he has presided over some of the highest rates of the century.

Much of his economic program has been filled with these needling ironies and great frustrations. And although the economy has prospered under Johnson, it has taken on an unhealthy, inflationary glow also. There have always been problems, imbalances, stalemates.

A man of power—he was elected with the biggest vote in history—and a man with a reputation for making decisions, Johnson has found himself either unable to time his courses of fiscal action or else has had his ideas blocked.

Some of his advisers urged him to seek a tax increase during 1966, but he postponed the decision month by month. Inflation crept into the economy and it grew and that was the start of many of today's money problems.

Finally in that year, the Federal Reserve Board, thinking the economy too hot, literally challenged the President's expansion policies. The Fed cut the money supply sharply, just at the time that Johnson's policies demanded money. He argued, but he had to give in.

In 1967 he attempted to raise income taxes but was blocked by Congress, which wanted also a cutback in expenditures. As this stalemate continued, the value of the dollar became suspect overseas.

All these problems describe a great contrast to a few years earlier. When Johnson was elected, the New Economics appeared to be proving itself. And after a tax cut sent the economy surging, the New Economics seemed like wisdom.

Fine tuning was a phrase much publicized. A tenet of the New Economics, it held that the economy could be made to sing a pleasant tune by the proper use of prods and restraints, by spending or taxing or reducing taxes.

But gradually the idea of fine tuning began to sound absurd. Politics and the war were partially responsible. Without the power to raise or lower taxes, to manipulate fiscal affairs, the economy couldn't be tuned. And, regardless of aims, defense costs made a mockery of fiscal balance.

Obstacles always have been in the way of Johnson's fiscal policies. French President Charles de Gaulle and his challenge to the dollar, Congress, the Fed, party members, youth, Negroes, intellectuals. All have been critical and demanding.

Is Johnson responsible for these fiscal and monetary crises?

It is far too early to guess how history will assess his handling of these issues. It is safe to say that he inherited a healthy economy. But he also inherited a long-standing balance of payments problem. He didn't create it.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a commoner might never know if he didn't open his mail:

It's a bad idea to let your pet pooch stray near neighborhood kids who have the mumps. Dogs can catch this disease from children.

Footballers are called pigskins, but actually they are made of cowhide. Originally, in this country, they were made of rubberized canvas. In Shakespeare's time games were played with inflated pig bladders, and before that sport in which they kicked human skulls around a field. The skulls generally belonged to extinct Danes.

Vacationing is now a year-round thing for Americans. Of the people who spend a week away from home annually, one out of four now makes the trip between November and March, and 58 per cent of those who go abroad do so between October and June.

Napoleon Bonaparte enjoyed the sweet smell of success. He liked cologne so much he sometimes used 50 or more bottles a month. Incidentally, if you have an average nose, you should be able to smell 2,000 different scents. A trained nose can distinguish between twice that number of odors.

At what age do children grow the fastest? For boys, between 12 to 15 years; for girls, between 11 and 14 years.

Quotable notables: "To find a career to which you are adapted by nature, and then to work hard at it, is about as near to a formula for success and happiness as the world provides." — Mark Sullivan.

I swear: Can you imagine the money the federal government could collect if it made profanity illegal and penalized it with heavy fines? Well, it has been tried. Such a law, called the "Profane Oaths Act," was passed in England in 1745. Violators were fined according to their station in life.

Feeling blue? Well, that's becoming one of the most commonplace mental woes of Western culture, perhaps an unavoidable price we pay for our complex civilization. Dr. Nathan S. Kline of New York's Rockland State Hospital says the diagnoses of neurotic depression have leaped tenfold in the last 25 years.

Maybe you suffer from nightmares, too. In the Middle Ages they were believed to be caused by nocturnal devils pressing down on a sleeping person's chest. The word nightmare comes from an old Teutonic term meaning "night devil."

It was Mark Twain who observed, "The man who is a pessimist before 48 knows too much; the man who is an optimist after 48 knows too little."

Right Movie Title

By GENE HANDSAKER
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sex hints are good "Pillow Talk," "Beach Blanket Bingo." So is violence "Battleground," "Gunfight at the OK Corral." But nobody knows for sure what makes a really great movie title.

"Naming a movie," says a studio veteran, "is more agonizing than naming a baby. It means many moments of meetings and millions of miles of memos."

Producers of a Monkees film are still so undecided they're shooting it under the tentative title "Untitled." For a good title can mean thousands of dollars at the box office.

An Edward G. Robinson picture about a syphilis cure attracted almost nobody as "The Story of Dr. Ehrlich." Retitled "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," suggesting Robinson's past gangster roles, it drew respectable business.

A current trend is to long, oddball titles:

"Darling Lili, Or Where Were You the Night You Said You Shot Down Baron Von Richthofen?" — A World War I comedy starring Julie Andrews.

"Can Hieronymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?" — filming in far-off Malta with Anthony Newley as producer, director and star.

Such kooky titles are intended to suggest uproarious comedy. But they're no box-office guaranties. "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad" is said to have been the trend-setter—and a bomb.

Short titles had a vogue "Stagecoach," "Shane," "Hondo" — and still pop up. The American — title "P.N." is the leading character's initials. For British audiences, distributors — often the final arbiters on titles — are calling it, more safely, "New Face in Hell."

"Oklahoma!" may have started some moguls' liking for exclamation points: "Lolita!" "Support Your Local Sheriff!"

Studios long have circulated scripts among employees, sometimes offering a $50-$100 prize for the best title. Disney employees volunteered 250 alternatives for "Car-Boy-Girl." From four, including "Car No. 53" and "Herbie," young Disneyland customers made the final choice: "The Love Bug."

Some studio veterans think the success of the picture makes the title rather than the other way around. Says one:

"'Bridge on the River Kwai' could have been the story of a dentist, 'From Here to Eternity' a story of forest lawn. If the audience goes out of the theater holding its noses, it doesn't matter what the title is."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

He Wants To Catch a Swinging Widow

DEAR ABBY: My wife died a year ago and this lady I'm interested in has been a widow for two years. We knew each other way back "when."

Before I renew our friendship I'd like to ask you a few questions. Since her husband died, this lady has had several men staying with her (one at a time) in her two-bedroom trailer. I also heard that she has visited an old farmer at his farmhouse (just the two of them) for days at a time.

Last week she headed for Arizona with another old buddy in his camper truck. She said she planned to sleep in motels on the way, and he would sleep in the truck, but she didn't say where they would sleep once they got to Arizona.

Now, Abby, a man doesn't want to marry a woman who has a bad reputation. She's the talk of this little town, but she is really a very high-class lady and everybody likes her. What is your advice?

WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: It seems almost a disservice to the community to take this aging swinger out of circulation — if indeed you could. But if you regard this woman as a "high-class lady," any advice I could give you would fall on deaf ears. And your vision isn't too good, either.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old Catholic girl secretly married to a 27-year-old Jewish boy. Sheldon (made up name) and I were married by a justice of the peace, intending to announce it later on. Now it seems that Sheldon doesn't want to announce it at all.

You see, Sheldon is a mama's boy, and his mother hates me. When we were married Sheldon promised he would marry me later in my church. Now he refuses. He wants to rent a furnished room and put me there and come to see me whenever he wants to, and then go home to mama without anyone knowing we are married. I've talked to a lawyer and I've also talked to my priest. The lawyer says I should file for divorce. The priest says I am not married in the eyes of the church. I still love Sheldon and don't want to break up with him, but if we can't live out in the open like decent married people, I don't want to go on like this. What should I do?

KATHY

DEAR KATHY: It would appear that Sheldon is not a "keeper." So unless he agrees to marry you in your church and accept the responsibilities of marriage, send him home to mama—permanently.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice is sound. Keep telling married people that they can resist the temptation of an "affair" if they try. After 16 years of marriage I, too, "fell in love" unexpectedly with a friend. The physical tumult that sprang from my being when I just saw his car was unbelievable. My struggle with temptation lasted three years! But I was blessed—somehow, I never told him how I felt about him, although I had many opportunities. This thought helped me: "If I betray my husband, and he betrays my wife, could I ever trust myself—or him—again?"

I won, for my emotional reactions are gone now, and the man I thought I couldn't live without remains our friend.

BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: Is "The Pill" 100 per cent foolproof?

MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Nothing is 100 per cent "fool proof" in the hands of a fool.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The political turmoil resulting from President Johnson's announced withdrawal as a candidate for renomination was thoroughly reflected on network television Monday.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy held a morning press conference that was covered by the three networks. He read a statement and answered questions.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy took over "The Monkees" half hour on NBC in the early evening for a paid political broadcast. He addressed the nation's and particularly today's voters in the Wisconsin primary, and spoke principally about his qualifications as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In the network news shows, candidates and potential candidates, critics and supporters of the administration, were interviewed about the President's actions.

CBS, in a special late evening special pre-empted Carol Burnett's variety show and worked over what host Walter Cronkite called "extraordinary political developments." Highlights included his interview with Richard M. Nixon, Republican contender, but most interesting was a free-wheeling discussion among Bill D. Moyers, vice president and publisher of Newsday, who served as Johnson's special assistant, author Theodore White and columnist Emmet John Hughes.

The three, all veteran president-watchers, agreed that Mr. Johnson meant exactly what he said about getting out of the presidential race, but they differed vastly in their opinions about the effect of that decision.

White said he believed the candidacy of Nixon was strengthened. Hughes felt that it enhanced the position of Gov.

Nelson A. Rockefeller and diminished that of Nixon. They felt that the position of Hubert H. Humphrey had to be fixed before really evaluating the Democratic contenders. Moyers said that the leading contenders, McCarthy, Kennedy and Nixon, were in "strange positions, like marionettes without strings."

The President's action had the effect of turning a number of topical barbs in NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in" into unfunny embarrassments. The program was taped before the President dropped his bombshell, but even so there was something tasteless and gratuitous in a crack like "LBJ is thinking of running in Vietnam—they were so successful in their election."

"The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" on CBS is going to run into the same prickly situation since all season it has made a specialty of taking potshots at politics in general and the White

ABC's "Wedding Party," a daytime trifle, had its premiere

Monday afternoon. The program specializes in interviewing engaged couples with emphasis on comedy—how they met, wedding plans and such.

The host, a Canadian TV per-

Musical Program To Honor Rev. Mary Lou Henderson

PASTOR MARY LOU HENDERSON

By MARION SINES
Women's Page Editor

In the short span of human life 60 years is a long time. Serving as mother, breadwinner, helping youth, raising children and being of service to the community for that many years is most deserving of great credit. All these things Pastor Mary Lou (Henderson) Bayless has accomplished. But even more to her credit, she has preached the gospel for 60 long years.

Preaching and helping young people has made her life a challenge that has been most rewarding. Her life has not been easy many times and she states that she has never been poor, just "circumstanced."

The daughter of a preacher, she preached her first sermon on Easter Sunday when she was 16 years of age, in Zanesville. The church was the African Methodist Episcopal Church and she has been preaching in that denomination ever since. She states that she will continue her work as long as she is able to stand at the altar and speak to those who will hear.

This Sunday, Palm Sunday, the congregation of St. Paul's AME Church will present a musical appreciation program honoring the 60 years service of Pastor Mary Lou, as she is affectionately called. The Scott Chorale Singers of Columbus will present the program 4 to 5 p. m. A fellowship lunch will be served in the dining area from 5 to 6 p. m., 422 S. Pickaway St. Hostesses from St. Paul's will be Roberta Valentine, Louise Beard and Mae Carter. Assisting from the Second Baptist Church will be Celesta Thomas, Pauline Jones and Agnes Ragland. The public is invited to attend the observance.

Born in Harrison County, her parents were John Alexander and Rosie Lee Duling. Mr. Duling was a bondsman, he later became a preacher and school teacher.

Pastor Mary Lou uses the name Henderson in her work although she is married to Harry M. Bayless, who manages a Celar Lumber Co. branch in Frankfort.

She is justifiably proud of her son and daughter. Through the years she also reared seven foster children. One of her foster sons who lives in Chicago paid her expenses for her to visit in his home this past Thanksgiving. The foster children are all grateful for her loving care and training which has helped them to live good lives.

Her son John William Henderson has a printing business in Dayton. He taught printing and journalism at Wilberforce University for 10 years before opening his own shop.

She speaks with pride of her grandson, John Jr., who is now playing football with the Detroit Lions. When he was a student at Michigan State she proudly remembers that he made the play that won the Ohio State-Michigan State football game that sent Michigan to the Rose Bowl, where he had the opportunity of playing. This was the first time that Michigan State had beaten Ohio State.

Another son of John Sr., David, is student at Central State University where he is majoring in Industrial Arts. A daughter, Eloise, is a senior at Central State where she is majoring in education.

Pastor Henderson's daughter, Mrs. Mabel Elizabeth Scott lives in London and is the mother of eight children. Grandmother keeps their pictures in the living room and proudly states that her daughter is bringing up those children properly, as the way she was trained.

Married in 1908 to William George Henderson she continued her preaching. Her husband was ill for 18 years before his death, making it necessary for Pastor Henderson to work at any job she could find. No task was too menial for her to do. She recalls that at one time she was on her knees scrubbing a floor and singing while she was working. A music teacher came to the home to give a lesson and was so impressed that she gave singing lessons to Pastor Henderson free of charge.

Pastor Henderson has been in Circleville for two conference years. She was pastor here for six years, 25 years ago. This time she came only for a short period, until another preacher could be obtained, but the congregation begged her to stay as they did not want anyone else in her place.

During her recent service in Circleville she has led in renovating the church. The basement has been repaired and cleaned and is used for many functions. Many repairs have also been made on the parsonage, but Pastor Mary Lou says there is much more work to be done.

Her only regret is that there are not more young people in the congregation. Her greatest satisfaction is working with youth.

She stated that the young people of today express themselves openly and are not suppressed as when she was a child. She believes that the outbursts are the "pent-up emotions of the parents." When she was a child she was told that children were to be seen and not heard and today the young people are doing the opposite. She said that parents told their children to behave like the white children, but the Negro children could only associate with the children on the street and not with the ones who were doing the right things. Then the Negro children were punished for following the only

Shower Fetes Pastor Dennis And Family

Members and friends of The Church of The Nazarene met in the fellowship center Friday for a "Chain Of Friendship" program. The occasion was in honor of The Rev. and Mrs. John Dennis and family.

Recently the congregation voted unanimously to retain pastor Dennis for a period of four years. The Dennis family came to Circleville in May 1964.

A table was centered with an arrangement of roses. Around the table, at each corner, was a child, a teen-ager, a young adult and a senior adult, each holding a white chain which encircled the table. Each of the representatives of the congregation at the table told the pastor of their appreciation for the work he has done in promoting the activities of the church.

A large table with gifts of linen were presented to the Rev. and Mrs. Dennis.

Refreshments were served by the hostess committee.

Missionary Unit Slates Guest Speaker

Monthly Missionary Service meeting of the First Church of Christ in Christian Union, E. Ohio St., will be 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the church.

Guest speaker will be Miss Shirley Uhlman of Alliance, a registered nurse. Miss Uhlman will leave soon for missionary work in New Guinea for the Churches of Christ in Christian Union.

Mrs. Ellen England, president, extends an invitation to all to attend.

Surprise Party Fetes Birthday

A surprise party was held Saturday evening in the home of Miss Doris McLaughlin, 119 S. Washington St., in honor of her seventeenth birthday.

white children they could associate with. She believes that the young people of today have too much freedom and parents are now trying to bring them back under control but with great difficulty.

She recalled the story of the cracked plate, where a man had a very good set of dishes and sent a cracked plate to the manufacturer with a note that he wanted an exact duplicate. Back to the man came an exact duplicate, crack and all. She compared this story to the fact that Negro children were to emulate the white children and the only ones they had to copy were definitely not perfect.

At one time Pastor Henderson was a guest preacher at a church and found that in choosing her text for her sermon on the margin of the Bible her grandfather had made a notation that he had preached on that text and also a notation by her father. She too, made a notation that she had preached there on the same subject.

Wedding Vows Exchanged In Fort Myers, Florida

MRS. ROBERT EDWARD DEAREN JR.

Miss Karen Elizabeth Matz and Robert Edward Dearen Jr. were united in marriage 1:30 p. m. March 23, in Redeemer Lutheran Church, Fort Myers, Fla.

The Rev. Everett Bunk officiated at the double ring ceremony. The sanctuary was decorated with arrangements of white gladioli, pompons, statice and mums. Mrs. Vera Bunk, organist, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard W. Matz, of Fort Myers, Fla., and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Huffer Sr., 426 N. Court St. Mr. Dearen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edward Dearen of Cocoa, Fla.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of candlelight satin with an oval neckline and short sleeves trimmed with Venice lace. A bow embellished the empire waistline of the sheath skirt and chapel train. Her veil of silk English illusion was held by a dior satin bow trimmed with Venice lace. She carried a cascade of white miniature carnations and Jack Frost Roses.

Miss Linda Jane Matz served her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Jill Rose, Miss Jean Gibson, Mrs. Jackie Kline, and Mrs. John Adams, sister of the bridegroom. Mary Ann Matz, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, and Julie Hayes was flower girl.

The attendants wore empire A-line gowns of apricot Karati with small front satin bows. Their floor-length back panels were decorated with double rows of satin covered buttons. Matching satin veils held their circular veils. They carried

Guest Speakers Address BPW Club Dinner Meeting

The March meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was a dinner meeting held at the Mecca Restaurant. Nancy Lu Conrad, chairman of the legislation committee, and Miriam Weaver, chairman of the finance committee were in charge of the program.

Howard Weaver, guidance counselor and Andrew Maze, director of special education of Teays Valley High School, were the speakers for the meeting. Mr. Weaver discussed the special classes for slow learners and the program the school has set up to get these students part-time jobs along with their school schedule. The program has proven that students of lower IQ who are given employment while still in school are better able to hold jobs in their future lives.

Mr. Maze discussed several specific cases at Teays Valley School and how these students react to the assistance they are given.

Miriam Weaver, finance chairman, conducted an auction with the proceeds going into the BPW Scholarship Fund.

Leora Sayre, president, opened the business session. Geneva Ullman, chairman of the nominating committee presented the following slate of officers: president, Leora Sayre; 1st vice president, Jo Ann Brink; 2nd vice president, Martha Blue; treasurer, Harriet Kaylow; corresponding secretary, Margaret Remy; recording secretary, Miriam Weaver; and parliamentarian, Nancy Lu Conrad. The slate of officers was unanimously approved and voted into office.

The club voted to send Marian Brehmer as a delegate to Girls' State, with Valerie Valentine as the alternate.

It was announced that the annual BPW Spring Breakfast will be held at the Valley House in Chillicothe, 9:30 a. m. April 21. Maxine Wilson, chairman of the career advancement committee, named her committee for the annual Girl Graduate Tea to be held in April: Mary Kay Wolfe, Etha Mae Wolford, invitations; Geneva Ullman and Joan Wagner, decorations and favors; Margaret Remy and Margaret Crites, registration; Virginia Kuhn, and Emma Curlett; programs; Pearl Defenbaugh, and Leora Sayre, program for the tea.

Implantable Artificial Heart Development Seen by '73

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-ranking government heart researcher forecasts development by 1973 of a totally implantable artificial heart based on a new concept of energy-supply: Use of the body's own digested food and inhaled oxygen. Electrical energy to pump the robot heart would come from a fuel cell that would burn oxygen from the blood stream and also glucose, a form of sugar produced by food digested in the normal fashion. Dr. Frank Hastings, chief of the artificial heart research program of the National Heart Institute, told The Associated Press that promising results have been achieved at the laboratory level in developing the fuel-cell concept. He said it looks like the best prospect yet for ultimately making completely implantable artificial hearts available to hundreds of thousands of cardiac patients newly stricken each year. He indicated it would eliminate the need for human heart transplants. The idea would be to graft the fuel-cell—consisting of a porous but tough, jelly-like plastic material—into the aorta, the body's major artery, beginning at the point where the blood vessel normally connects with the natural heart. The cell would employ a thin sheet of gold-alloy fibers which would act as a catalyst in promoting energy-producing chemical reactions. Electrical energy, produced by the fuel-cell, would flow to the "muscles" of the nearby implanted artificial heart, enabling it to pump blood in and out of itself. The robot heart itself would consist of a tough but flexible rubbery material, which would be covered with a thin envelope of living tissue fashioned from a vein in the patient's leg.

Lindsay Asks Riot Powers

Would Ban Guns, Sale of Liquor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay today asked for emergency powers to ban the sale of firearms and alcoholic beverages and to impose a curfew in the event of civil disorders in the city.

Lindsay said the city "has been fortunate in avoiding any civil disorders for the past two summers" but added that there can be "no guarantee of tranquility."

He sent legislation to the City Council which would empower him to declare a state of emergency, either citywide or in a specified area, upon written certification of the city's emergency control board.

Under the proposed legislation, in the event of an outbreak of civil disorder, the mayor would be empowered to ban the sale and display of firearms and ammunition, establish a curfew, prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages and close places normally used for public entertainment.

He also would be able to control the flow of vehicular and pedestrian traffic in the emergency area except for emergency services.

Storm Hits Far West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A windblown spring storm swept the far west today and bore down on the northern and central Rockies with a wintry mixture of rain and snow.

Snow and rain spread eastward across the plateau from Nevada to Montana after the storm dumped rain along the Pacific Coast Monday. Up to 4 inches of snow was predicted for mountain regions.

A separate storm system doused parts of Texas, Louisiana, Kansas and Missouri with rain and drizzle.

Cooler, but dry air settled across much of the eastern half of the country and ended a spell of record much of the eastern half of the country and ended a spell of record warmth in the northeast. The mercury plunged down to a low of 23 at Bradford, in northwestern Pennsylvania.

Soviet Scientist Dies Monday Night

MOSCOW (AP) — Lev D. Landau, one of the world's leading physicists until an automobile accident six years ago, died Monday night, the Soviet government announced today.

Landau, winner of the 1962 Nobel Prize for Physics, was 60.

Landau suffered a severe brain injury in January 1962, when his car skidded on ice and crashed at Dubno, 75 miles from Moscow. He was in a coma for several months.

Compare Stevenson, McCarthy Campaigns

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The benevolent spirit of the late Adlai E. Stevenson must be hovering delightedly over the campaigning of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Like Stevenson, whom he admired greatly, McCarthy is imparting a freshness of wit and good humor to the ordinarily dull grind of grubbing for votes. There is one difference. Stevenson, twice his party's presidential nominee, loathed primaries. He complained that all of the chores of making set speeches, ploughing through crowds grasping every hand in sight and attending cocktail parties didn't give a man time to think.

McCarthy, on the other hand, seems to take all of this traditional campaigning in stride. He never had so much national attention before and he is basking and expanding in it. If it had been left to Stevenson—and if it were left to McCarthy—there would be calm, serious discussion of the issues. And cut out the monkeyshines.

Perhaps he doesn't do it as well as Stevenson, who was an indefatigable polisher of phrases, but McCarthy is adept at spicing his informal talks with little jokes on himself. He also has the same tendency as Stevenson to use pertinent quotations from the classics, poetry or prose that seem to fit the occasion.

Czech Judge Found Hanged

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) —Czechoslovakia's missing Supreme Court judge was found hanged today, the Interior Ministry announced.

An announcement distributed by CTK, the official news agency, said the body of Dr. Jozef Brestansky, 42-year-old first deputy president of the Supreme Court, was found hanging in a woods in the Benesov district, some 25 miles southeast of Prague.

Brestansky, who was heading an investigation of persecution during Czechoslovakia's Stalinist era, disappeared Thursday on his way from the Supreme Court to the Justice Ministry in Prague.

In a recent speech, McCarthy took note of criticisms that his campaign organization was made up largely of college amateurs and lacked professional direction at the top.

"We may not be well organized at the top," he said, "but we are the best organized at the bottom that this country has ever seen."

He announced, with tongue in cheek, that if elected he would take down the fences around the White House. These well-patrolled barriers guard the President from anti-Vietnam and other demonstrators.

McCarthy poked at his chief opponent, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., for setting up so many campaign committees. He was especially resentful, he intimated, that one Kennedy committee had been set up to deal with the Irish.

"I had really thought that we had made it—I didn't know that we were still considered a special class in America," he said. McCarthy announced that to offset the proliferation of Kennedy committees, "We are setting up a subcommittee on retired left-hand pitchers from the Three-League."

Man Is Charged With Manslaughter

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Charles Jones, 25, was charged with first-degree manslaughter Monday in the death of a 9-year-old boy.

Police said the victim, Walter Wilcoxson, was in bed Saturday when a bullet crashed through his bedroom window and hit him. Police said Jones had been firing several shots in the street.

If things keep on the way they are going, he said, there soon would have to be a subcommittee for each person in the country.

In the course of the speech, primarily devoted to civil rights, McCarthy managed to work in references to Caduc, the ancient poet, and Chesterton, the English essayist.

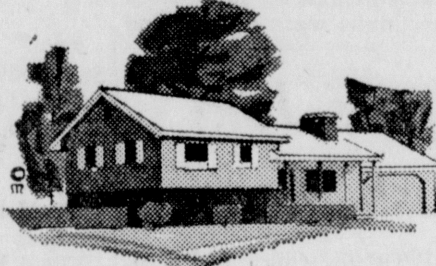

This was hardly par for the course, however, since many of his speeches go much further in establishing McCarthy as an unreformed member of the intelligentsia—a standing avoided by most politicians on the make.

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson has served his first day as a "lame duck" President—and managed to make it look easy.

If Johnson entertained any private misgivings Monday about his "completely irrevocable" decision to shun another race for the country's highest office, they were totally camouflaged.

In fact, the Chief Executive looked and acted like a man who had just invented peace of mind, peace of soul, or both. He seemed relaxed, confident and happy.

Often labeled an impatient man, quick to anger when discomfited, he remained unruffled even when a mishap involving the White House press corps—a traditional adversary of all presidents—kept him an immobile prisoner in his own airplane for more than half an hour.

Although it usually is assumed there is little brotherly love between Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, who covets his job, even mention of Kennedy's name failed to draw sparks.

Johnson, when asked if he would honor the senator's request for an early face-to-face meeting, simply replied, "Surely."

When a reporter then inquired if the President had any particular meeting time in mind, Johnson appeared the soul of magnanimity and accommodation.

"Whenever it is convenient for him," he said.

Observers have noted in the past that Johnson has seemed to find new zest for life—and greater equanimity — after resolving, to his satisfaction, major problems. That would seem to be the case now.

He has "crossed that bridge" — phrase he repeatedly used to describe his possible candidacy—and he gives every sign of being very relieved that he reached the farther shore safely.

For many reasons, Monday wasn't a typical day in John's life as President. But neither was it unusual. He flew to Chicago on short notice—par for the recent course—and addressed the National Association riots at home, through some inherently unfair quirk of human nature, make more compelling television news fare than accounts of conciliation and consensus, his audience seemed grateful that he had come to share these presumably disquieting thoughts with them.

Then came the delayed flight back to Washington. Two chartered buses carrying the White House press corps to the airport collided on a crowded express-news conference.

This was no cruel hazing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators openly criticized of President Johnson's Vietnam policies are privately expressing relief that he has decided against running again.

Many had viewed Johnson as the party's likely nominee and felt that — if this were the case — they would be hard-pressed to run under his political mantle with their opposition to his war policies a matter of public record for opponents to seize on.

In this presidential election year, Democrats face stiff fights in both the Senate and House. Republicans express confidence in their chances of winning 31 seats and grabbing House control while sharply reducing the nearly 2-1 Democratic majority in the Senate.

Of 35 Senate seats being contested, 23 are held by Democrats, including 8 outspoken critics of U.S. war policies.

by the President on the war issue, said he doubts the President's decision will have a major impact on his own re-election bid.

But he acknowledged "the chances of keeping unity might be better," although adding he has always expected most Democrats to line up behind whoever the nominee is.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a war policy critic whose current term still has two years to run, said he thinks the President's decision pleased the Democratic senators running for re-election.

Besides McGovern, seeking his second term in a normally Republican state, Democratic opponents of Vietnam policies running this year include Sens. Wayne Morse of Oregon, Frank Church of Idaho, J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Joseph S.

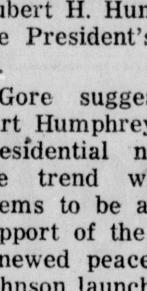

Clark of Pennsylvania and Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut.

For some weeks, Senate and House Democrats who oppose Johnson on the war have been walking a political tightrope, afraid to offend either wing of their divided party and worried about the possibility of having to campaign on a ticket headed by a President of whom they were critical.

This is the major reason for the widespread neutrality of the handful supported Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy or New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Many have made themselves hard to find as agents of either McCarthy or Kennedy, now the only announced contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, bombarded their offices with efforts to win their support.

While both McCarthy and two when he walked through the packed lobby of the Conrad Hilton Hotel—but he also got a lot of cheers that somehow sounded more sincere and enthusiastic than many in the recent past.

It was easy to imagine that a lot of Americans had been personally touched by Johnson's surprise disavowal of politics—and that these cheering people either were sorry about his decision or, for one reason or another, felt he had grown a few inches in the process, earning an extra measure of respect.

Johnson then proceeded up the stairs to lecture the broadcast. Although he made clear that he thinks wars abroad and because all the reporters and photographers from Washington were flying with him aboard Air Force One.

If the delay disturbed him, he didn't show it. As soon as the survivors climbed aboard, he quickly began a good-humored razzing of one newsman who hadn't been ready with a quick question when the President

Most Serious Brazilian Outbreak Since '64 Coup

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Tanks and armored personnel carriers loaded with combat troops patrolled Rio through the night after student rioting in the metropolis and four other cities. It was the most serious violence since the army coup in 1964.

At least one person was killed in Rio and another death was reported in Goiania, where an estimated 3,000 demonstrators battled 600 police. Other clashes were reported at Belo Horizonte, Fortaleza and at the university campus in Brasilia, the capital.

Machine-gun fire was heard in downtown Rio when federal troops came in after 11 policemen had been wounded by gunfire. Unofficial reports said more than 100 persons were hurt.

Cincinnati Eyes Starting Unit For First Game

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — With the baseball season opener less than a week away, one question bothers the Cincinnati Reds. Namely, what will the starting lineup look like?

Manager Dave Bristol says he is undecided just who will face the Chicago Cubs Monday in Cincinnati.

Consensus is Pete Rose, Vada Pinson, Lee May, Tony Perez, Leo Cardenas and Tommy Helms will fit.

And statistics show that Milt Pappas is in the front for pitching duty. The 28-year-old right-hander has pitched 26 exhibition innings and leads Cincinnati in that department. He ended last season with a 16-13 record.

Don Pavletich's six homers and 16 runs batted in might force a re-evaluation of the catcher's position — once believed to be the property of rookie John Bench.

Further on the pitching scene, Gary Nolan and Billy McCool say they can't throw hard because of muscle miseries.

Bristol mustered one smile. Mel Queen, also mired in arm aches, pitched five impressive innings last Sunday. He's a bit rearers in training, but the margin is slight.

The homework on which Bristol now dwells is how to set up a pitching rotation for the first couple of weeks of the season.

The Reds go against Houston today in Tampa. No game was scheduled Monday.

You can start the baseball season any time, Mr. Commissioner. Bob Gibson's ready.

The old St. Louis Cardinals' World Series hero of last year pitched seven overpowering innings against the Chicago White Sox in an exhibition game Monday. His only regret was that Manager Red Schoendienst didn't let him finish.

"I felt fine and could have gone nine innings," the big right-hander said after the Cardinals' 3-1 victory. Gibson gave up only five hits and one walk while striking out four. In addition, he retired the last 13 batters he faced.

In other games Monday, Boston beat Atlanta 1-0, Houston edged Oakland 2-1, the New York Yankees shaded Detroit 6-5, Pittsburgh nipped the New York Mets 4-3, Philadelphia crushed Minnesota 8-1, Baltimore took Washington 5-2, the Chicago Cubs outslugged Los Angeles 8 and California nosed out Cleveland 10-9.

Gibson, who won three World Series games over the Red Sox last year, has been named by Schoendienst to open the season for the Cardinals next week against Atlanta.

Mike Shannon provided the muscle in the St. Louis attack, with a homer and a double among his four hits, raising his spring batting average to .390.

The Red Sox also got a strong

Annabelle Will Enter The Derby

TORONTO (AP) — Annabelle announced her decision to run in the Kentucky Derby Monday.

Annabelle is a 3-year-old filly, whose ears join her head at right-angles and whose owners are newspaper men Paul Rimstead and Fred Ross.

They fell in love with her at a horse sale a year ago and scraped together the $1,100 asking price. From then on, what happened to Annabelle should happen to a dog.

Rimstead and Ross formed a jazz band to follow her around; they enlisted the services of wrestler Sweet Daddy Siki as a bodyguard; entertainers wrote songs about her; she was the subject of a coming-out party.

Monday night they threw a press reception at a ritzy Hotel to announce her entry into the Derby, to serve mint juleps and, incidentally, to sell shares.

Trainer Jim Santha fielded questions about his wonder horse.

"She's eating well, about 10 to 12 quarts of oats a day. She is in fine shape, resting well. In fact, eating and resting is what she does best."

"She has never run the mile and a quarter before," Santha said, hedging on her workouts.

"She works best in company and we haven't worked her out with another horse yet—maybe next week."

Rimstead and Ross own Byline Stables—Annabelle is their only horse—and their colors Rimstead describes as "white with black blotches."

Neither had any figures on Annabelle's workouts, but Rimstead was keeping count at the free bar—"300 mint juleps in half an hour; incredible."

Stooge Club Wins Hi-Y Tournament

The Stooge Club basketball team won the annual Circleville Hi-Y Basketball tournament held at the junior high school, defeating the Independents, 32-28, in the finals.

Members of the winning team were Rod Sines, Craig Lambert, Steve Carrol, Mark Ralston, Kelly Barthelmas, Bill Gates, Dick Thornton and Bob Tootle.

Members of the independent team were Steve Dade, Jack Carle, Herb Amey, Tom Archer, Glenn Griebel and Don Cordle.

The Hi-Y is affiliated with the local and national YMCA. Club president is Steve Olney and the club advisor is Walt Greuser.

Voileylball Teams Arrive in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Men's and women's volleyball teams of the Soviet Union arrived here today by air to play a series of goodwill matches with 4 Japanese teams.

The 32-member teams will stay in Japan until April 18 to play 16 matches in major cities throughout the country.

Florida bred thoroughbreds enjoyed their finest year in 1967 by winning more than 25 percent of all the $100,000 added races during the year.

Orioles Problem: Survive Rigors of Spring Training

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "Our problem," said Baltimore's Hank Bauer last month, "is to get out of spring training healthy."

"If we stay sound," added Orioles' superstar Frank Robinson, "I think we're going to win it."

A few days later, the Orioles' plane lost an engine on the way to an exhibition game in Sarasota. Then Jim Palmer's pitching shoulder went lame—and Manager Bauer's suntan began to fade.

When spring training began, it was generally agreed that if the Orioles remained healthy they would be back in the thick of the 1968 American League race after a nightmarish fall. Everything happened to Baltimore in 1967—and none of it was good.

Palmer, Dave McNally and Wally Bunker, who each had pitched a World Series shutout over Los Angeles in 1966, were shelved by sore arms.

Triple Crown winner Robinson suffered a concussion in a baseline collision, sat out a month and played the last two with double vision.

Boog Powell, winner of the AL Comeback of the Year award the previous year, topped from a .287 average, 34 home runs and 109 runs batted in to .234, 13 homers and 55 RBI.

The Orioles crawled home in a sixth place tie with Washington, 15½ games off the pace. But their troubles weren't over. Center fielder Paul Blair, the league's No. 5 hitter, went to Puerto Rico to play winter ball — and broke his ankle.

Bauer, beginning his fifth year as the Orioles' pilot, came to camp with fingers crossed. The three sore-armed pitchers were throwing without pain, Robinson's vision was normal. Powell was determined and Blair was itching to play after bouncing back from an operation.

The Orioles, still young and strengthened during the winter by a multi-player trade with Chicago, could go all the way if Palmer's arm trouble isn't serious—or contagious—and if Powell bounces back to help Frank Robinson and Brooks Robinson carry the offensive load.

The lineup probably will be the same as last year, with the exception of shortstop, where slick-fielding Mark Belanger takes over for Luis Aparicio. Aparicio was traded to the White Sox, with outfielder Russ Snyder and pitcher John Matias, for infielder Don Buford and pitchers Bruce Howard and Roger Nelson.

Powell will be back at first base, Dave Johnson, .247, at second and Brooks Robinson, .269, at third.

Rookies Dave May and Marv Rettermund are pressing for outfield jobs. But Frank Robinson, .311, and Blair, .233, are established in right and center while Curt Blefary, .242, figures to be back in left.

Andy Etchebarren, .215, likely will handle most of the catching.

Baltimore pitchers had many problems in 1967. One of them, according to Bauer, was non-support. "We lost 33 one-run games and a total of 56 by one and two runs," he said.

Tom Phoebus, 14-9, Jim Hardin, 8-3, and Howard, 3-10 with Chicago, are starting candidates along with Palmer, McNally and Bunker. Pete Richert, 9-16, moves to the bullpen, joining Gene Brabender, Moe Drabowsky, Edie Watt and Stu Miller. Richert and Brabender are available as starters if some of the other arms don't hold up.

Belanger's glove will help at shortstop but his hitting potential is suspect.

"I don't know how much he'll hit, but that's beside the point," Bauer said. "He's not going to carry the team. If the Robinsons don't hit and Powell and Blefary don't either, we're gone anyway."

If they all hit, Belanger does too and the pitchers stay off the disabled list, the rest of the league might be gone.

Tennis Pros Ink NLT Contracts

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — "I don't think people look on a sport these days unless money is involved," says Billie Jean King, the tennis queen who could make $70,000 playing the game during the next year.

Mrs. King, Ann Haydon Jones of England, Francoise Durr of France and little Rosemary Casals of San Francisco signed contracts Monday to play with the new National Tennis League.

Also joining the pros was Australian Roy Emerson who could earn up to $100,000 for each of the next two years.

Contracts for the five were announced by George MacCall, former United States Davis Cup captain who is now president of the pro group.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN — It's "Play Ball!" time in the major leagues as the 1968 season is set to open April 8 with the traditional Washington ceremony, the Senators playing host to the Twins, and two games in the National League. Ten presidents have thrown out the first ball since William Howard Taft first did it in 1910. The new campaign features a franchise-shifted team, Kansas City Athletics to Oakland; return of such stars as Roberto Clemente of the Pirates, Lou Brock of the Cards and Mickey Mantle of the Yanks, several new managers like Al Dark of the Indians, return of Louie Aparicio to the White Sox and a possible rookie pitching phenom, Alan Foster of the L.A. Dodgers.

4 Horses, Jockeys Take Spill

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Four horses and their jockeys tumbled to the track at Ascot Park Monday, seriously injuring one rider. A horse was killed.

Danny Weiler was later reported in serious condition at St. Thomas Hospital in Akron. He suffered possible head injuries.

The accident occurred in the ninth race at the nearby Cuyahoga Falls track.

Weiler was riding Jolly Cork and the horse went down on the final turn of the seven-furlong race. Pirate King, ridden by Guy Smithson, tumbled over the fallen horse and Edward N., with Raul Sterling aboard, was the third to fall.

Edward N. got up, turned in the opposite direction, and ran head-on into Cram Day, ridden by Pete Dalgo.

Cram Day was killed on the track, possibly of a broken back, according to track officials. Dalgo suffered a sprained left knee. The other two jockeys were not seriously hurt.

Movie film of the race showed Weiler may have been kicked in the head when the other horses fell, track officials said.

Weiler, 32, lives in Woodmere, near Cleveland.

Knicks and Celtics Square Off for Best-of-7 Sunday

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Experience is the best teacher and the New York Knicks and Detroit Pistons received a lesson Monday night from the aging Philadelphia 76ers and Boston Celtics.

Of course, the lesson was poorly taken because the 76ers eliminated the Knicks from the National Basketball Association playoffs and the Celtics did the same to the Pistons.

Philadelphia's crippled veterans ousted the Knicks 113-97 and Boston's oldsters sent the Pistons packing 111-103 as both closed out their best-of-7 Eastern Division semifinal series on the road, four games to two.

And now, it's the defending world champion 76ers again facing the once-dynastic Celtics in another best-of-7 set starting Sunday in Philadelphia.

The Western Division semifinals resume tonight when division winner St. Louis tries to take another step away from elimination by squaring its series against San Francisco on the West Coast. The Warriors, who finished 13 games behind the Hawks in regular season play, blew one chance Sunday to eliminate the Hawks, but still hold a 3-2 lead.

The winner of that series will oppose Los Angeles, which won its semifinal against Chicago Sunday night.

Lonborg Ready To Pitch Again

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Ailing Jim Lonborg's recuperation is right on schedule in his determined bid to be back pitching for the Boston Red Sox by May 15.

Lonborg, who plays 27 holes of golf daily, gets in plenty of swimming and works with weights as part of his rehabilitation, plans to throw from the mound Wednesday for the first time this spring.

Vern Mikkelsen To Head Muskies

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Vern Mikkelsen said it when he accepted the general managership of the Minnesota Muskies' basketball team Monday, and nobody disputed it.

"It will take a lot of hard work... a lot of promotion. It won't be an easy task," Mikkelsen said of the job before him in winning paying customers for the Muskies, who were everything but a box office success in their first American Basketball Association season.

Ben Hogan Out

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Golfer Ben Hogan, two-time winner of the Masters tournament, said he would return to his home in Fort Worth, Tex., today and canceled plans to play in the Masters because of a recurring knee injury.

Cleveland Wants Tennis Tourney

CLEVELAND (AP) — A bid to hold a $100,000 open tennis tournament in Cleveland this summer will be presented to the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association in Dallas Saturday.

That was the word Monday night from Bob Malaga of Cleveland, executive secretary of the USLTA. The tentative date for the tournament is the first week in August.

Joe Zabliski Given Salute

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Zabliski, the dean of New England college football coaches, was honored Monday night for 20 years of distinguished service to Northeastern University.

More than 400 friends saluted Zabliski at the Northeastern Varsity Club's annual dinner. In 20 years as Northeastern coach, his teams have won 85 games, lost 58 and tied six.

'Duke' Wyre Dies In Maryland

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Alfred J. "Duke" Wyre, administrative assistant in the University of Maryland athletic department and a member of the Helms Foundation athletic trainers Hall of Fame, died Monday. He was 61.

Wyre, who served as athletic trainer at Maryland for 20 years, at Yale for 15 years and at Holy Cross one year, was taken to Prince Georges County Hospital two weeks ago with a stomach ailment. He suffered a fatal heart attack Monday at the hospital.

Jim O'Toole Tries Comeback

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)

—Veteran Jim O'Toole, released recently by the Chicago White Sox, will try to pitch his way back into major league baseball as a Pittsburgh Pirate farmhand.

The left-hander signed a contract Monday with the Pirates' International League team, the Columbus Jets, Pirate General Manager Joe Brown announced.

FFA Holds Banquet, Installation at Westfall

By DON GREENWOOD

The Westfall Future Farmers of America chapter held its annual Parent-Son Banquet in the High School Cafeteria recently.

The meal was prepared by the Westfall Boosters Club and served by members of the FFA. Invocation was given by Richard Riddle.

Following the banquet the program continued in the auditorium with the opening ceremony performed by the retiring officers, who were Eugene Osborn, Bill Houser, Dave Garrett, Steve Holbrook, John Furniss, Jack Moore and Stanley Bauman.

The welcome to all parents, friends, and guests of the FFA Chapter was given by Don Greenwood; and the Parents' Response was presented by his mother, Mrs. M. A. Greenwood, when she included a challenge for the future to each FFA member.

Chris Schein and Steve Sines reviewed the chapter activities for the past year.

All of the retiring officers cooperated in presenting Honorary Chapter Farmer Degrees to Eugene Schleich and Ned Beauman, who have been very helpful to the local chapter's growth and projects.

Mr. Schleich has been respon-

Gilligan Has No Favorite Candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John J. Gilligan, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate nomination, says he has no favorite yet in his party's presidential nomination battle.

But other Ohio Democratic leaders appeared ready Monday to jump on the bandwagon of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

Gilligan said at a news conference here Monday night he has not committed himself to any one candidate, adding "I can't make a choice at this moment."

He is a delegate at large to the national convention, and said "I'm still pledged" to vote for Sen. Stephen M. Young as the state Democratic party's favorite son.

Young, who had been expected to support President Johnson for renomination, urged Monday that the Democrats nominate Kennedy for president and Sen. Eugene McCarthy for vice president.

Saltcreek Sets Zoning Hearing

Saltcreek Twp. trustees are launching a second effort to enact zoning regulations for the township.

The zoning commission has scheduled a public hearing 8 p. m. May 3 at Saltcreek Twp. School.

The texts and maps of the resolution may be examined from 8 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. daily from April 22 to April 26, and from 8 to noon April 27 in the office of the school building.

Saltcreek voters turned down the zoning resolution by a 26 vote margin in the 1967 November General Election. It is one of only two unzoned townships in Pickaway County.

Sterling Poling is chairman of the zoning commission. George Macklin is secretary.

3 Cincy Schools Hit by Blazes

CINCINNATI (AP)— Fire hit three public schools in Cincinnati Monday, causing minor damages and interrupting classes at one school. Police said one of the fires was set intentionally.

Students were evacuated from Hughes High School shortly after 11 a. m. when flames broke out in a second-story hallway after a flammable liquid was poured on the floor, police said. Classes were resumed 30 minutes later.

Shortly afterward, firemen were called to Woodward High School to extinguish a blaze which originated in a trash can in a restroom. They then went to Cutter Junior High to put out a fire which scorched stage curtains.

Security police at the base said they captured a suspect and turned him over to the FBI.

Robert W. Probert, 36, chief of the utilities operation at the base, was shot in the shoulder.

James Martin, special agent in charge of the FBI in Alaska, said Monday in Anchorage the suspect has been charged with assault with intent to kill.

Judge Sentences Four Local Men To Ohio Pen

Four men were sentenced by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer Saturday.

Charles W. Hill, who had previously pleaded guilty to issuing a check with no account, was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary for a period of one to seven years. Hill was indicted by the January Grand Jury.

George Oyler appeared before the court on a bill of information, waiving his right to a grand jury hearing. He pleaded guilty to forgery and was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary for one to 20 years.

Paul David Boysel, Circleville, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering of a building during the night season. He was sent to Lima State Hospital for a 60 day observation period by Judge Ammer. Boysel appeared in court on a bill of information, waiving his right to a grand jury hearing.

Don Shisler, Circleville, pleaded guilty to two counts of issuing checks with no account in the bank.

He was sentenced to the Ohio Pen on one count. The second charge was a misdemeanor and he received a suspended six months sentence in the county jail.
